TERMS PER YEAR, - - - $2,00.
IN ADVANCE.

This edition of the GAZETTE is one of the largest weekly papers in the State. Having the matter published in the Daily [illegible] of surpassing excellence, we are enabled to furnish a paper containing the correct REVIEW of the markets, and make the paper a complete reflex of County, State and general news.

THE NEWS.

Our dispatches are cut short to-day, in consequence of the line being down at some place east.

One of the most encouraging features of of the news is the statement that the old fogy, Halleck, receives his orders now from Gen. Grant.

Grant left Washington last night to return to Nashville. Longstreet's movements are said to have something to do with it. The rebel papers say that a battle will soon take place there.

All was quiet at Chattanooga on Wednesday. Veterans were returning in large numbers, and the cars from Nashville were crowded with officers who had been absent on leave. Jonhston's army was believed to be receiving reinforcements from Alabama and Mississippi.

Gold is 63.

STATE NEWS.

The Kenosha Telegraph of Thursday, under the head of "Navigation opened," says two vessels bound north, passed that place the day before. It also says that the city of Kenosha is in out of the draft, under the 500,000 call, and 23 to spare under the next call.——The Watertown Democratic says Col. C H. Larabee started last Monday for California. He goes to recover his health, broken by two and a half years of active service in the field. A fire occurred in Watertown on Monday morning, ing consuming the grocery store of J. D. Jarvis, and the cabinet room of M. Quigley. Loss not stated.——The Green Bay Advocate says; "A woman in soldier's clothes, was arrested in this city one day last week, on account of complaints from Manitowoc that she had married a woman in that place, taken her money and decamped. Upon learning of her arrest here officers from Manitowoc came through and took her to that place for trial. We learn that she formerly lived at Bay de Noquet with her husband, that her husband now lives somewhere along the shore of Lake Michigan, that she has been absent from him nearly two years, part of the time in Camp at Madison in soldier's uniform; that she speaks two or three languages, has cultivated a light moustache and like some of the counterfeit money now in circulation, at first glance it is well calculated to deceive. She has been brought to a sudden halt in her wild career and we trust will be taught a lesson that will make her a wiser and better woman in the future."——Hon. Marshal M. Strong, an old and prominent citizen of this State, died at his residence in Racine on Thursday evening, of consumption. His health has been poor for many years.——The La Crosse Republican says a rumor has reached there that Chas. A. Stevens, of La Crosse, who recently obtained some appointment from Secretary Chase, to look after confiscated plantations down South, has been gobbled up by guerrillas near Vicksburg.——The Winona Republican of Monday says: "We understand that the banks of Milwaukee and Stand[illegible] Winona County Bank of this city, also the W[illegible] the bills of the La Crosse and La Crescent B[illegible]ank of Hokah in this State, and also the Peo[illegible]'s Bank, St. Peter. "Two persons hailing [illegible] by our authorities for passing counterfeit [illegible]oney. They answer the description of two persons who had been operating in this line at Cambria, on the La Crosse Railroad, where they attempted to pass counterfeit or raised bills of the Winona County Bank."——The Madison Journal gives an account of the murder of Mr. Cruikshank of that city at Nicholasville, Ky. He was a sutler of the 1st Wisconsin Cavalry, and was found dead and horribly mutilated. No clue has been found to the perpetrators of the foul deed.——The Green Bay Advocate says: "A man by the name of A. B. Harvey, formerly, we believe from Cleveland, a stranger in the city, was found dead in his bed on Sunday morning last.——The Kenosha Telegraph says: "We hear of several of our farmers taking advantage of the fine weather last week, to sow their spring wheat.

THE New York Times' correspondent who accompanied Kilpatrick's raid to Richmond says the rebels have evidently obtained a new supply of railroad iron since last year. He was with Stoneman last year and says these roads were then nearly worn out. New tracks have since been laid.

THE Federal authorities have recently confiscated the property of the following rebels, situated at Superior, Wisconsin: R. M. T. Hunter, R. Ould, Wm. Aiken, Samuel Magoffin, W. W. Boyce, John McQueen, W. W. Corcoran and S. M Flournoy.

TROOPS are now moving to the front, in Grant's department in very large numbers. During one day nearly four thousand re-enlisted veterans passed through Louisville for the South, to say nothing of new recruits, convalescent soldiers, etc., who were forwarded to the army.

LIFE'S BALM.—God over all! How the tired heart falls back upon this, like a babe on its mother's breast. No rebuff there! Ah! were we not so childishly impatient, were we willing to wait His time, instead of demanding our own imperative now! Could we sleep sweetly, and trust Him for the waking! Be the sky bright or cloudy, could we only trust! Ah! many a hard lesson must we learn, many a rebellious tear choke down, many a despairing "why hast thou forsaken me" stifle, ere we can learn the sweet, tranquil lesson—"God over all!"

LETTER FROM MADISON.

Editorial Correspondence.

MADISON, March 11, 1864.

Hon. A. C. Barry, of the Assembly, received a telegram this morning announcing the death of Mrs. Col. Utley of the the 22nd Wisconsin Regiment. She died at Racine this morning. Mr. Barry left this afternoon to attend the funeral.

Mr. Elwell introduced a resolution this morning that whereas this body has signified a purpose to adjourn some time during the coming summer, after to-day no gentleman on the floor shall be allowed to speak for more than an hour and three-quarters at one time on any question of a strictly local character, and not more than half a day on questions of a more general nature. [Laughter.]

The vote rejecting the resolution to procure the publication of the proceedings of the Sorghum Convention, was re-considered and the resolution adopted. A memorial to Congress was adopted, asking a grant of land to aid the Southern Minnesota Railroad. Bills were introduced providing for a sinking fund to pay certain debts (farm mortgages) of the Milwaukee & Horicon road; to re-establish the township system of schools; amending the Statutes in regard to legacies and debts of deceased persons; amending Statutes in regard to roads and bridges; and a memorial for a daily mail from St. Paul to Lake Superior.

Senate bills were passed increasing the salary of the Assistant State Treasurer and Assistant Secretary of State to $1,500; amending act of 1859 requiring parties to prosecute appeals to the Supreme Court with diligence.

The Senate cleared up its table this morning, and adjourned over until Monday evening at half past seven p. m.

Southern Patriotism.

It is much easier to kindle a fire than it is to put it out, and easier to inflame the public mind with dangerous and delusive doctrines than to help to carry out those doctrines. The Nashville Union gives a good illustration of this in speaking of a couple of prominent individuals in the "Confederacy." It says:

"We have long wondered what had become of L. P. Walker, the first rebel Secretary of War; the man who predicted that within a few days after the bombardment of Sumter, the Confederate flag would be floating over the dome of the capitol at Washington. He was one of the prime movers in the work of firing the Southern heart; and one would have supposed that he, of all others, would figure most conspicuously on the battle field. But such was not the case; and the public has long been asking: Where is he? We can answer the question. He has been employed as counsel by a large number of planters in Alabama, to keep them out of the army!!! Noble specimen of chivalry, this man, and these planters, who would listen to nothing but war. They would let the poor man fight and die, but shrink from taking the field themselves.

Another personage is H. S. Hilliard, once a very conspicuous character in Alabama. He has left the bar, abandoned politics, and gone to preaching, and has now charge of a Methodist congregation, at Augusta, Ga."

EDITORS GAZETTE—Gents:—Three strange communications have lately appeared in your daily over the cognomen of "Lex." Who on earth is "Lex?" Have you examined and do you adopt his heresies? Of course you do not, unless you are willing that the principles you have long labored to establish and maintain shall be completely overthrown. You are not prepared to proclaim the "Errors of Jefferson," of the "Wisconsin Republicans," or the "earlier day errors of Mr. Madison."

Are you prepared to endorse the brainless folly of declaring that the rebellion is sustained by Jefferson, and that he is no longer the acknowledged father of the principles of the Republican Party? Old Jeffersonian Democrats and Fremont Republicans are not prepared thus to stultify themselves.

Some friend ought to induce "Lex" to stop murdering a subject, the mere rudiments of which are entirely beyond his comprehension.

I don't know who "Lex" is; but evidently he has not yet reached even the threshhold of the doctrine of State rights; or he could not so easily establish the fact that both Madison and Jefferson were fools.

DAVID NOGGLE.

SINCE Longstreet's retreat from East Tennessee, Union citizens who had been driven from their homes are returning by the score. Farmers expect to put in their spring crop during the coming month. The people believe that Longstreet has given a final farewell to East Tennessee.

—So long as a woman inspires love, she is not old. But what is it to be old? It does not depend upon the fact that we have existed during a certain mysterious number of years which have been allotted to each of us. To be old is to have no longer a beauty that charms. If a woman preserves the attractions of youth until she reaches the age of one hundred, she will be younger than the woman of twenty who has lost them.

JANESVILLE DAILY GAZETTE.—This paper comes to us again after a resting spell of two months. We failed to recognize it. There was such a look of life, freshness and intelligence about it, that nearly half a day passed before we could realize that it was the GAZETTE. On looking the paper over, we found new type, and several indications of prosperity, gratifying to witness. Verily, there has life come out of Janesville, and there is spice and originality in the DAILY GAZETTE.—La Crosse Democrat.

Twelfth Battery at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 11th, 1864.

Messrs. Editors:—Having an opportunity of writing you, as we are laying over here in Chicago, I thought I would give you some information in regard to the Soldiers' Home at Chicago. We were received with great kindness and respect. The very highly and respectable Mr. D. Johnson is a man throughout to see to the wants of our wayworn soldiers; and the ladies, not at all forgetting them, they are a blessing to our country. The 12th Battery was provided with an extra table which highly pleased the boys. Not that the fare was any better but it showed respect from the matrons of the Home. The officers are ladies with the exception of President and Treasurer, who are gentlemen selected by the board of directors. They carefully guard against receiving deserters, or in any way encouraging men running away from their regiment. The name of each man is recorded as soon as he enters the Home, with his company, regiment, residence, date of entrance, departure and place of destination, with such other memoranda respecting him as the Superintendant may deem advisable to note.

The country will reward its patriot soldiery. We by these tokens signify our gratitude to those who have defended us; our sympathy for those that suffer, and our remembrance of such as have fallen for our country, forever and ever.

Your obedient, WM. R. B.,
M. A. S., 12th Wis. Battery.

—Mrs. and all the Misses John Mitchell returned home to Richmond recently. They had to leave all their pretty clothes on the steamer which was burnt to avoid our cruisers, and take to the shore in a long-boat.

—It appears from the official reports of 1863 that of 1,404 fires which occurred in London last year, 227 were in some way or other connected with candles, 80 with children, 123 with flues, 100 with gas, 26 with lucifers, 31 with tobacco smoking, 107 with sparks and 27 with stoves, while the cause of 489 remained an unsolved mystery.

GOING TO THE TOURNAMENT.—As will be observed by the Common Council proceedings of last evening, permission has been granted to Water Witch Engine Co. No. 2 to take their apparatus to Fond du Lac next summer, to compete for the prizes offered by the State Firemens' Association at the Tournament to be held in that city. This wide-awake company is always on hand for duty at a fire, or where there is any fun, and if at Fond du Lac they fail to win a prize, we are no prophet.

VEGETABLES FOR THE ARMY.—The ladies Soldier's Aid Society have furnished one barrel at F. S. Eldred's and another at S. H. Culver's store where those families that can furnish pickled vegetables in lesser quantities than barrels can send them there to fill those barrels. The ladies would call attention to the method of preparing the vegetables. The potatoes should be pared and sliced, and put into spiced vinegar that has been previously scalded.

The ladies are gratified to learn that the farmers are moving in this direction and hope our city will not be behind. Let every family do something. Now is the time to do this good work. There is no remedy for neglect. Prompt action will have its reward.

The following order was adopted: "That the action of the Council heretofore taken relieving lots 6 and 7 in block 30, and lots 1 and 8 in block 31, original plat of Janesville, from the payment of assessment for street improvement be and the same is hereby rescinded."

The Committee to whom was referred a petition for the improvement of part of Wall street reported in favor of the petition.

The Committee to whom was referred the petition of the Fire Department asking a salary for the Chief Engineer reported adversely to the prayer of the petitioners.

The Committee to whom was referred the petition of Engine Co. No. 2 for a new bell, reported in favor of allowing said company to correspond with manufacturers to ascertain and report to the Council what a suitable bell could be purchased for, but not to make any contract without further order.

The same Committee reported in favor of granting permission to Water Witch Engine Co. No. 2 to take their engine to Fond du Lac on the 24th and 25th of Aug., to attend the Firemen's Tournament.

An order was made instructing the City Clerk to give the proper notices for the charter election to be held on the 5th of April next.

W. B. Strong, Alderman of the 1st ward, tendered his resignation as Alderman, to take effect on the 19th inst., which was accepted.

The Council adjourned to one week from this evening.

FAT OXEN.—We were shown to-day four head of fine fat oxen, raised on the farm of Mr. J. P. Dixon, of this city. They were purchased by Dano & Lee, and when slaughtered will make very choice beef. Their weight was as follows: 1,870, 1,775, 1,825. Not very heavy, but fat enough to make an epicure's mouth water.

RESIGNATION OF ALD. STRONG.—As will be seen by the Council proceedings, Ald. Strong has resigned his office, to take effect on the 19th. He has been an efficient member of the Council, performing his duties with promptness and intelligence. We believe his name has been as seldom found among the absentees as any member of the Council. He resigns because of the press of other duties connected with his office as General Agent of the M. & P. du C. R. R. Company.

A FRIENDLY VISIT.—Yesterday afternoon our city was enlivened by a delegation of Madison teachers, who had come over to make Janesville a visit, and pay their respects to those engaged in similar avocations with themselves. They were sixteen in number, and were accompanied by Mr. F. B. Williams, Principal of the Madison High School, and A. J. Craig, Esq. Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction. They intended to take the early Madison train and arrive here about 9 o'clock A. M., but owing to some neglect on the part of some one, they did not arrive at until 2 o'clock P. M. They, however, felt disposed to make the most of their short time, and spent several pleasant hours in looking through the schools, and in cultivating the acquaintance of our teachers.

Last evening the city teachers gave their Madison visitors a liberal and generous entertainment at the residence of J. P. Dickson, Esq., who kindly threw open his doors for the occasion. There was not only a feast of reason and a flow of good spirits, but there was also a bountiful repast of such viands as are sometimes beneficial to the carnal nature of the human race. The teachers returned to their homes among the lakes this evening, with a higher opinion of the hospitality of Janesville than they entertained before, and a more just appreciation of the civilities and amenities of social life.

They spent a portion of the time to-day in the teacher's meeting, and in paying a hurried visit to the Blind Institute. Hope they will come again and stay longer.

DIED.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

ANOTHER PIRATE AFLOAT.

NEW YORK, March 11th.—It is reported, on the authority of the captain of the gunboat Desoto, that a rebel privateer, bark-rigged steamer, is cruising to the westward of Havana.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ELECTION.

CONCORD, N. H., March 11th.—Returns from 220 cities and towns, leaving ten to hear from, stand thus: Gilmore, 36,750; Harrington, 30,759. Gilmore's majority will be about 5,600. Four of the five counsellors, and nine of the twelve senators elect are Union Republicans. The Union Republican majority in the House is about seventy-five.

FROM ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, March 11.—Secessionists report that Gen. Frost has quitted the rebel service, and left the country by way of Matamoras and Havana. They believe he will soon follow his wife, who came here not long ago from New York, took the oath, and gave bonds.

News from Virginia City, Idaho Territory, represents that twenty-two persons in all have been hung or shot by the Vigilance Committee.

W. H. Moulder, a prominent citizen of Mississippi county, Mo., was assassinated by guerrillas on the 3d of March.

Gen. Rosecrans has rescinded all orders heretofore issued in this department prohibiting the sale of newspapers and other publications.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

NEW YORK, March 11.—A private letter from Fortress Monroe, 6th, says: "Last evening, as Gen. Kilpatrick was leaving here to return to his command at Yorktown, news reached Gen. Butler that the enemy had been troubling our line between Portsmouth and Suffolk. Gen. Butler at once stopped the Yorktown boat, and a consultation took place between him and Kilpatrick. The result is that Gen. K. and his command were removed from Yorktown to Portsmouth last night, and are now, with our forces, at the lines in front of Portsmouth, or on the advance in pursuit of the enemy.

"I was up in the front yesterday afternoon, and ascertained that the enemy's force consisted of only 2,000 infantry and some two regiments of cavalry, with four pieces of artillery. This may have been their advance force only.

"Artillery firing was distinctly heard during last night, which was by our forces shelling the woods, not knowing but that the enemy was advancing in force. Our force is quite sufficient to defend the front, and place troops in position to cut off their retreat."

FROM NEW MEXICO.

FORT SMITH, Ark. March 10.—A citizen of Santa Fe arrived here to-day via Cootaw Nation. He says that the people of New Mexico are in great fear of a rebel raid into their country, in consequence of the Federal occupation of the entire Southwest, and the necessity of the rebels finding an outlet in that Territory, Gen. Herron having blockaded all the routes to Mexico on the Rio Grande.

A convention of the Chocktaws is called to meet on the middle of next April. It will embrace all the leading men of the tribe. The rebel Gen. Maxey failed to induce the Chocktaws to continue their relation with the Confederate government. The convention will propose the old terms of allegiance to the United States. Chief Jack McCurtain circulated over 4,000 copies of the President's amnesty proclamation, which was received with great favor. The Seminoles and Chickasaws are still obdurate, owing mainly to the influence of Gen. Cooper, their old Indian agent.

Gen. Blunt arrived yesterday. Gen. Kimmel, Superintendent of the enrollment of volunteers also arrived.

Gen. Magruder, it is said accompanied Price in his return to Camden and spent two weeks at his headquarters.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, March 11th.—Lieutenant General Grant left for Nashville on the evening train, accompanied by General Rawlings and Col. Comstock. He did not intend to leave here until Sunday next, but matters were sooner settled than anticipated. General Halleck's status is no longer a matter of doubt. He reported yesterday to General Grant for orders, and was assigned to special duty here.

Generals Meade and Ingalls came here with General Grant from the Army of the Potomac. The former have not yet returned.

Francis Waldron, author of the statement that General McClellan had an interview with General Lee after the battle of Antietam, is to be made to testify. If he gives his evidence as published, others cognizant of the probability of such a meeting will be summoned before the war committee.

The Ways and Means Committee have completed their amendments to the National Banking Law, and will report on Monday next. The rate of interest is fixed at 7 per cent, and is to be uniform. It allows old banks who wish to accept its provisions to retain their names. The numbers of banks are repealed. There are other amendments, but they are unimportant. These amendments will meet with strenuous opposition, as numerous petitions from old State banks, mostly from New England are pouring into Congress against the whole bill.

After the adjournment of the House to-day, there was an informal meeting of the republicans, when the question was discussed as to what action should be taken on the gold bill, which passed the Senate to-day. It was finally decided that, in order to stop speculation, the Secretary's views on this question should be sustained by republicans. The overwhelming vote of the Senate will therefore insure its passage.

It is reported to-night on good authority that Gen. Grant requested that Baldy Smith should be appointed to the Major General's position made vacant by his (Grant's) promotion, and that the President has accordingly sent his name to the Senate. It is also stated on high military authority that Gen. Smith is to be the new commander of the Army of the Potomac, at the particular request of Gen. Grant.

Secretary Chase to-day instructed Gen. Spinner to state that, from and after the 10th inst, all quartermaster checks will be paid, 70 cents in certificates and 30 cents in currency, instead of 50 cents as heretofore.

DESTRUCTION OF MAILS.

TOLEDO, March 11th.—The Blade learns from the local mail agents here that the following mail from points east, between Cleveland and New York, for points at the west, was almost entirely destroyed by fire in the accident on the Cleveland and Toledo Railroad on Wednesday evening. The Blade says:

In addition to about 100 canvas bags, containing papers, letter bags for the following offices were in the mail: Toledo, 6; Perrysburg, 1; Air Line Road, 3; Bryan, 1; Chicago, 5; Galena, 1; Springfield, 2; Quincy, 2; Cairo, 2; Dubuque, 1; St. Joseph, Mo., 3; St. Paul, 1; Denver City, 1; San Francisco, Cal., 1; Sacramento, Cal., 1; Rockford, Ill., 1; Maumee City, 1; Defiance, 1; Logansport and Peoria agent, 1. Total, 35.

FROM CAIRO.

CAIRO, March 11.—Major General Ord, having been relieved of the command of the 13th army corps, Department of the Gulf, by the appointment of General McClernand to that position, is now on his way to Louisville, to report to Lieutenant General Grant. He is to have a command in Grant's department.

General Ord is accompanied by his family and by his brother Major Ord, and Captain A. B. Sharp, who belong to his staff. General Ord is a West Pointer, and has been in the military service for twenty years. He was in the Florida and the Mexican wars. He was appointed Major General about the same time with General Sherman. He is a very plain and unassuming man, both in dress and manner—of rather small stature, and is forty-four years of age.

We expect to hear soon of a new movement from Vicksburg.

JAS. MCMICHAEL, Ch'n.

Mr. Chase and the Presidency.

It cannot be regarded in any other light than as a misfortune that the people of these States will be compelled to turn aside, during the present year, and engage in the discussion and excitement that are incident to a Presidential canvass. Most fortunate would it be for the country, if the official term of the present incumbent could be lengthened out until the present fearful rebellion could be crushed, the Union restored, and until we could welcome back the meek-eyed angel of peace to our shores again, as of yore. But time waits for neither men nor events, and the solemn duty of selecting Mr. Lincoln's successor already stares us in the face. We must go about it whether we will or not.

We published yesterday afternoon the text of Mr. Chase's letter declining to be considered any longer an aspirant for Presidential honors, and in which he quietly and modestly took himself out of the list of candidates for that high position. In taking this step thus early, Mr. Chase has given but another proof of his great patriotism and his unselfish devotion to what he considers the best interests of his country in her trying and perilous hour. A man of great dignity of character, of splendid executive and financial abilities, of enlarged and liberal statesmanship, and who has long been known and recognized as an able champion and unfaltering advocate of those rights and principles upon which the freedom of the human race must stand, his friends had a right to expect and claim for him the respect and consideration which is due to one of the best and ablest statesmen of his time. The safe and steady manner in which he has conducted the government finances through the most critical period of the nation's existence, has not only won the admiration of his own countrymen, but has received, as it has merited, the applause and commendation of the ablest financiers of the old world. Mr. Chase had never exhibited any of those distinguishing characteristics which pointed him out as a man pre-eminently qualified to be placed at the head of the treasury department, before he was selected for that position by Mr. Lincoln. As a member of the United States Senate, he was never conspicuous in the debates relating to the monetary affairs of the nation, and as Governor of Ohio, he was regarded only as a safe and economical officer who did his duty faithfully and conscientiously, and it was not until he was placed in his present trying position, at a time when financial ruin and embarrassment stared the nation in the face, as if chaos was about to come again, that the latent energies of his great soul manifested themselves in bold and decisive action which has given the people confidence and courage. As much as the nation is indebted for its safety to Abraham Lincoln, it owes as much, to-day, to Salmon P. Chase; and although the latter gentleman was not the first choice of many for the presidency, yet had he been selected as the standard bearer by the National Union Convention which meets in Baltimore next June, the loyal people of the free States would have rallied around him as one man.

As matters now stand, Mr. Lincoln certainly seems to be quite sure to have things all his own way in the next Nation-Convention, although great changes now take place in men's prospects in a single day. With the declination of Mr. Chase and the preferences expressed for the President by the legislatures and State conventions of so many states, he bids fair to outstrip all competition, and receive the nomination without serious opposition, unless he be guilty of some unpardonable blunder, and a man who moves as slowly as Mr. Lincoln does, is not apt to make mistakes. This voluntary action on the part of Mr. Chase, if adhered to, must increase rather than diminish, Mr. Lincoln's chances, whatever influence it may have upon the prospects of the other aspirants.

It is now a mere matter of speculation as to who will be selected as the democrat ic nominee for the next campaign. Those who want to put down the rebellion by drilling a great army, holding dress parades, digging rifle pits, throwing up fortifications and retreating in the face of Quaker guns, are in favor of General McClellan. Those who are in favor of a peace with the rebels upon any terms and at any cost, are naturally clamorous for the nomination of Ohio's great martyr, Vallandighnm. As for poor Seymour since the Irish democratic riots in New York among "his friends," he is a dead cock in the pit, and that is the end of him. Great evils sometimes have their compensations, as well as great blessings. Those riots disgraced the nation, but they shelved a wily, dangerous traitor.

General Grant is understood to have been interrogated as to his willingness to accept of a democratic nomination, by some of those who are so anxious to win to care anything about principle. The story goes that he objects to the use of his name, for two reasons; first, he does not want to be a candidate at all, and in the next place, he objects to any political platform that the copperheads are willing to place him on.

McClellan, it seems to us, stands the best chance to be selected as the standard bearer of that aggregation of bad elements and worse principles that will cluster around the banner of the opposition in the next presidential campaign. Without the ability of either Seymour, Vallandigham, or Wood, he possesses certain negative qualities which do not repel, if they do not attract, and his strength lies in his passiveness. Those who voted for Seymour in New York, for Woodward in Pennsylvania, for Vallandigham in Ohio and for H. L. Palmer in our own State, stand ready now to make an idol of "little Mac." Should he be nominated, the hosts of freedom-loving voters in the loyal States would have as little to fear from him, as did the rebel army before Richmond.

Sherman's Great Expedition.

[Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.]

CANTON, Miss., Feb. 26, via CAIRO, March 10.—The grand expedition into Mississipi has returned thus far, and once more we have communication with the outer world.

The expedition has been successful in the objects for which it was sent, viz: to destroy rebel communications by cutting their railroads in all directions, and draw off some of the rebel force from Mobile and Chattanooga.

The expedition penetrated one hundred and fifty miles into the heart of the rebel country, with no communications kept open in its rear, and without meeting any opposition except skirmishing with the enemy's cavalry. It is confidently reported that Gen. Polk had 14,000 men at Meridian, but with this force he dare not make a stand.

We have destroyed nearly seventy miles of railroad, so that there is not a tie nor rail left. All the roads extending from Meridian, of which there are four, are destroyed for a long distance.

More than 8,000 contrabands followed our army back.

Hundreds of mules and horses have been driven off, and property captured and destroyed, of many millions of dollars' value to the rebels.

Terror and consternation has been carried to the hearts of the Confederates, and all has been done in an incredibly short space of time, and with but a trifling loss of life.

It has had a tendency to convince the common people of the hopelessness of their cause. The State is virtually abandoned by rebels, and the people can think of coming back into the Union.

This army has been on the march almost constantly, and has lived on half rations and what they could get from the country, but they have invariably stood it remarkably well, and only wished that they could have had a brush with the rebels.

Though no great battle has been fought and victory won, yet the expedition may be accounted quite successful. Our loss in killed, wounded and prisoners will not exceed 100. That of the enemy is much greater.

We killed a rebel Major and captured one, besides other officers. The country is thinly peopled, and most of the residents poor. They were not originally seceesh, but most of them became so. Many would be glad to return to the Union.

Some cotton was seen, most of which was burnt.

The steamer Constitution, seven days from Vicksburg, has just arrived, bringing the 4th Iowa cavalry and seven hundred other re-enlisted parts of regiments.

From officers who were with Sherman's expedition, I learn the following:

The expedition left Vicksburg on the 30th of February. The next day crossed the Big Black river, as before stated, with Wirt Adams' cavalry drawn up in line of battle. Col. Potts' brigade advanced and were strongly resisted by the enemy, who began to retreat after a fight of an hour and a half.

Our troops pushed on in line of battle, following them five miles, and by night had driven them beyond Jackson.

They drove a squad of rebel cavalry out of Jackson, and occupied it. The State House is in good condition, and not burned as has been reported.

In the night some soldiers burned down a number of houses.

The next morning the pontoon bridge was thrown across Pearl River, and the army marched to Brandon, where they skirmished with cavalry, and drove them out.

On reaching Morton they encountered a division of Loring's and French's. They had been throwing up defenses and evidently intended to fight, but as our forces came up slowly, they retreated without firing a gun.

On the 14th Gen. Hurlburt's corps entered Meridian, the remainder of the expedition following the ensuing day, having destroyed the town of Hillsboro', in Scott county, on the way. In Meridian we encountered some rebel cavalry and drove them out, after some skirmishing, and then took possession of the town and held it four days. At that time expeditions were sent out which destroyed fully 100 miles of road on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad and on the Railroad leading to Selma. This includes over 30,000 feet of bridging and a large amount of rolling stock was also destroyed. We found that the rebels themselves had destroyed much rolling stock to prevent it from falling into our hands. While this was being done the town of Enterprise and village and railroad station of Chankey were destroyed, together with a large amount of rebel stores which were burned up at Chankey.

There had been no intention of going to Selma, and the main body of the army never went beyond Meridian.

The expedition took with them only 20 days rations, and all was accomplished that had been intended.

Our entire loss in killed, wounded and missing, is put down by correspondents who accompanied the expedition as only about one hundred.

Only two regular correspondents were on the expedition, Mr. Kern, of the New York Herald, and Mr. Simonds, of the Chicago Tribune. Our forces captured and brought away 121 prisoners, received 200 deserters and killed and wounded about 200 of the enemy.

Nearly 6,000 negroes of all ages and sexes followed the army on its return to Vicksburg, escorted by Col. Potts' brigade.

Smith's cavalry was to have joined them at Meridian. If it had done so it would have been used to do important service on the Tombigbee River, in addition to the serious damages inflicted by other troops.

The expedition was at no time in danger from the enemy's resistance, and so formidable that the utmost terror was caused by their advance, and the country was generally helpless before them.

Confidence was felt that with necessary provisions the expedition could have marched successfully to Mobile.

Our army subsisted almost entirely on the enemy's country, and at no time was it short of provisions. It left Canton on the 4th and returned to Vicksburg on the 6th and 7th inst.

The Poetry of Good Cheer.

From the Round Table.

Dugald Stewart, the philosophical essayist, ranks accomplished cooks with great poets, and in reading the memoirs of distinguished men the refined epicurian is pleased to find that as a general rule, the intellectual giants who, "like torches, have consumed themselves for the enlightenment of mankind," were very fond of good living. The bran-bread and non-carnivorous thinkers and writers, from Diogenes to Sylvester Graham, do not occupy a large place in history nor figure brilliantly on its pages. Shakspeare in his early youth hankered after the fat bucks in Sir Thomas Lucy's park, and in later life indulged in jolly dinners with rare Ben Jonson at the Mermaid. Dr. Johnson, the "Behemoth of Literature," scoffs at "people who have a foolish way of not minding or pretending not to mind what they eat," and declares he who does not study his stomach "will hardly mind anything else." The doctor's particular weakness was veal pie, which is not a bad thing when the pastry is made by an expert, and the contents duly seasoned; but we regret to say that he marred his reputation as an aristologist by eating lobster sauce with his plum-pudding. We honor him, however, for having left on record an emphatic protest against the Scotch abomination called a haggis, which, according to Perry, is composed of the entrails of a sheep chopped up with onions, herbs and suet, and boiled in the sheep's maw. What a Scotch bagpipe is to the ear, a Scotch haggis must be to the palate. Milton, notwithstanding puritanism, is said to have fed his peerless muse with the choicest provender, and to have regarded a banquet missed as a paradise lost. His imitator, the bard of the "Seasons," was furiously fond of fruits, and in the autumn was accustomed to nibble at the peaches of his own garden, as they hung temptingly in the sun. He always bit them on the red side, we are told, thus displaying the same taste for the florid in his appetite that is conspicuous in his poetry. That "solid man" in philosophy, Lord Bacon, loved dainties almost as well as bribes, and one of his biographers asserts that he caught the pulmonary complaint of which he died while engaged in stuffing a capon with snow! Even the pious Fenelon had charming ideas on the subject of good cheer, and sometimes wrote like an inspired voluptuary. In his "Voyage dans l' Isle des Plaisers" he gives a description of the way in which the people of the mythical land of Cocagne enjoyed themselves, which makes the palate tingle. Cocagne, according to the philologist, is from coquere, "to cook," but Fenelon's Cocagness have no trouble whatever with their viands, their dinners being gotten up in the most sumptuous style by culinary enchantment. According to Dr. Doran, however (who has given us in his "Table traits with Something on Them" a complete vade-mecum for the curious gastronome) the good archbishop borrowed the idea of his epicurean paradise from the Greek poet Teleclides, who thus (through the medium of a free translation) tells us how the world lived and junketed in its golden youth:

Saturn loquitur. I will tell you what sort of life I vouchsafed to men in the early ages of creation. In the first place, peace reigned universally, and was as common as the water you wash your hands with. Fear and disease were entirely unknown, and the earth provided spontaneously for human want; the rivers then poured cataracts of wine into the valleys, and cake disputed with loaves to get into the mouth of man, as he walked abroad, supplicating to be eaten, and giving assurances of excellent flavor and quality; the tables were covered with fish which floated into the kitchens, and courteously put themselves to roast; by the side of the dinner-couches rolled streams of sauces, bearing with them ready-roasted joints; while rivulets full of ragouts flowed near the guests, who dipped in and took therefrom according to their fancy. Every one could eat what he pleased, and all that he ate was sweet, succulent. There were countless pomegranate seeds for seasoning; little pates, done to a turn, insinuated themselves between the lips of the banqueters, and tarts got smashed in endeavoring to force themselves into the throat. Children played with delicacies as with toys; and the men were gigantic in height and obese in figure.

A rare speech this, but singularly inconsistent from the mouth of Saturn. Surely the poet had forgotten that the old god, as described in the Greek mythology, was of so undiscriminating a palate that he swallowed a paving stone, under the supposition that it was his infant son Jupiter. The thick-headed deity, who did not know a baby from a boulder, could never have given utterance to such a distasteful rhapsody. Besides the legion of Fenelon, there is another and more familiar story, which seems to us to have been borrowed from Teleclides; to-wit, that myth of our childhood's days which treats of a land where the streets are paved with gold and the houses tiled with pancakes, and roast turkeys, with knives and forks for legs, promenade the thoroughfares, crying out "Come eat me!"

It is unnecessary to multiply instances of the epicurean proclivities of authors. From time immemorial they have lived on the fat of the land to the extent of their pecuniary ability, and often beyond it. The few exceptions are not worth naming—they merely establish the rule. Long may the literati continue to be critics in cookery as well as in matters more ethereal, and heaven send them the means of gratifying their praiseworthy dietetic taste! If we could choose their domicile for them, they should live in the

"Land of Cocagne—
That elyseum of all that is grand and nice,
Where for hail they have bonbons, and claret for rain,
And the skaters in winter show off on cream ice.

Where so ready all nature yields,
Macaroni au parmesan grows in the fields;
Little birds fly about with the true pheasant taint,
And the geese are all born with the liver complaint."

To descend from the poetic to the practical; we intimated in a former article that America had much to learn in the esthetics of gastronomy. Touching numberless delicious relishes seen on the tables—especially the breakfast and luncheon tables—of "the English epicures," Yankee Doodle and eke his wife are lamentably ignorant. Potted meats, potted shellfish, and potted game are not on our bill-of-fare. Every well to-do English family that pretends to live well has stores of these bonnes bouches to set before its guests. The lady of the house prepares them or superintends their preparation, and whosoever has not tasted the transatlantic potted lobster, potted shrimps, potted crab, potted veal, potted beef, and potted game, has missed the same number of exquisite sensations. They are not costly luxuries—far from it—nor is it difficult to manufacture them. The meats are thoroughly boiled, then chopped, and then, with the addition of a little butter, reduced to a paste in a mortar. During the latter process they are judiciously seasoned—don't forget the mace. Next they are closely packed down in jars, and covered at the top with a layer about a quarter of an inch in thickness of liquefied butter. Winged game is generally potted whole, enveloped in a strong gravy which becomes gelid when cold; but, sometimes the birds are boned, and then prepared and potted like the ordinary meats. Lobsters and crabs are usually pounded in the same way; but shrimps should always be put down as they come from the husk, and the interstices in the jar, and after the contents have been pretty closely wedged together by pressure should be filled up with melted fresh butter. In all these articles much depends upon the seasoning—in fact, seasoning is the very soul of cookery.

You can buy imported potted meats, shell-fish, etc., at some of the leading grocery and provision stores, but they are no more like the articles bearing the same names that are made in English homes than vin ordinaire is like sparkling Burgundy. They are manufactured for this market after cheap recipes, lack richness and flavor to begin with, and are more or less spoiled by the voyage. Things potted, to be worth eating, must be prepared at home. If American ladies will try their hands at these delicacies, we promise them the thanks of their countrymen.

But have we not made rather a sharp descent from the attic heights of literature to the kitchen depths of culinary detail? We commenced among the poets, philosophers, and metaphysicians, and here we are, with our sleeves rolled up, and disguised in a white cap and apron, standing by the kitchen dresser. Well, what of it!—did not the great Lucullus, who won heaven knows how many victories for Rome over the barbarians, now and then flourish a ladle as the chef of his own cuisine?

THE NEWS.

Our dispatches are cut short to-day, in consequence of the line being down at some place east.

One of the most encouraging features of of the news is the statement that the old fogy, Halleck, receives his orders now from Gen. Grant.

Grant left Washington last night to return to Nashville. Longstreet's movements are said to have something to do with it. The rebel papers say that a battle will soon take place there.

All was quiet at Chattanooga on Wednesday. Veterans were returning in large numbers, and the cars from Nashville were crowded with officers who had been absent on leave. Joulston's army was believed to be receiving reinforcements from Alabama and Mississippi.

Gold is 63.

STATE NEWS.

The Kenosha Telegraph of Thursday, under the head of "Navigation opened," says two vessels bound north, passed that place the day before. It also says that the city of Kenosha is in out of the draft, under the 500,000 call, and 23 to spare under the next call.——The Watertown Democratic says Col. C. H. Larabee started last Monday for California. He goes to recover his health, broken by two and a half years of active service in the field. A fire occurred in Watertown on Monday morning, ing consuming the grocery store of J. D. Jarvis, and the cabinet room of M. Quigley. Loss not stated.——The Green Bay Advocate says; "A woman in soldier's clothes, was arrested in this city one day last week, on account of complaints from Manitowoc that she had married a woman in that place, taken her money and decamped. Upon learning of her arrest here officers from Manitowoc came through and took her to that place for trial. We learn that she formerly lived at Bay de Noquet with her husband, that her husband now lives somewhere along the shore of Lake Michigan, that she has been absent from him nearly two years, part of the time in Camp at Madison in soldier's uniform; that she speaks two or three languages, has cultivated a light moustache and like some of the counterfeit money now in circulation, at first glance it is well calculated to deceive. She has been brought to a sudden halt in her wild career and we trust will be taught a lesson that will make her a wiser and better woman in the future."——Hon. Marshal M. Strong, an old and prominent citizen of this State, died at his residence in Racine on Thursday evening, of consumption. His health has been poor for many years.——The La Crosse Republican says a rumor has reached there that Chas. A. Stevens, of La Crosse, who recently obtained some appointment from Secretary Chase, to look after confiscated plantations down South, has been gobbled up by guerrillas near Vicksburg.——The Winona Republican of Monday says: "We understand that the banks of Milwaukee and stand... Winona County Bank of this city, also the ... of the bills of the La Crosse and La Crescent B... Bank of Hokah in this State, and also the Peo... le's Bank, St. Peter. "Two persons hailing ... from Wisconsin were arrested this morning ... by our authorities for passing counterfeit ... money. They answer the description of two persons who had been operating in this line at Cambria, on the La Crosse Railroad, where they attempted to pass counterfeit or raised bills of the Winona County Bank."——The Madison Journal gives an account of the murder of Mr. Cruikshank of that city at Nicholasville, Ky. He was a sutler of the 1st Wisconsin Cavalry, and was found dead and horribly mutilated. No clue has been found to the perpetrators of the foul deed.——The Green Bay Advocate says: "A man by the name of A. B. Harvey, formerly, we believe from Cleveland, a stranger in the city, was found dead in his bed on Sunday morning last.——The Kenosha Telegraph says: "We hear of several of our farmers taking advantage of the fine weather last week to sow their spring wheat.

THE New York Times' correspondent who accompanied Kilpatrick's raid to Richmond says the rebels have evidently obtained a new supply of railroad iron since last year. He was with Stoneman last year and says these roads were then nearly worn out. New tracks have since been laid.

THE Federal authorities have recently confiscated the property of the following rebels, situated at Superior, Wisconsin: R. M. T. Hunter, R. Ould, Wm. Aiken, Samuel Magoffin, W. W. Boyce, John McQueen, W. W. Corcoran and S. M Flourney.

TROOPS are now moving to the front, in Grant's department in very large numbers. During one day nearly four thousand re-enlisted veterans passed through Louisville for the South, to say nothing of new recruits, convalescent soldiers, etc., who were forwarded to the army.

LIFE'S BALM.—God over all! How the tired heart falls back upon this, like a babe on its mother's breast. No rebuff there! Ah! were we not so childishly impatient, were we willing to wait His time, instead of demanding our own imperative now! Could we sleep sweetly, and trust Him for the waking! Be the sky bright or cloudy, could we only trust! Ah! many a hard lesson must we learn, many a rebellious tear choke down, many a despairing "why hast thou forsaken me" stifle, ere we can learn the sweet, tranquil lesson—"God over all!"

FROM MADISON.

Editorial Correspondence.

MADISON, March 11, 1864.

Hon. A. C. Barry, of the Assembly, recieved a telegram this morning announcing the death of Mrs. Col. Utley of the the 22nd Wisconsin Regiment. She died at Racine this morning. Mr. Barry left this afternoon to attend the funeral.

Mr. Elwell introduced a resolution this morning that whereas this body has signified a purpose to adjourn some time during the coming summer, after to-day no gentleman on the floor shall be allowed to speak for more than an hour, and three-quarters at one time on any question of a strictly local character, and not more than half a day on questions of a more general nature. [Laughter.]

The vote rejecting the resolution to procure the publication of the proceedings of the Sorghum Convention, was re-considered and the resolution adopted. A memorial to Congress was adopted, asking a grant of land to aid the Southern Minnesota Railroad. Bills were introduced providing for a sinking fund to pay certain debts (farm mortgages) of the Milwaukee & Horicon road; to re-establish the township system of schools; amending the Statutes in regard to legacies and debts of deceased persons; amending Statutes in regard to roads and bridges; and a memorial for a daily mail from St. Paul to Lake Superior.

Senate bills were passed increasing the salary of the Assistant State Treasurer and Assistant Secretary of State to $1,500; amending act of 1859 requiring parties to prosecute appeals to the Supreme Court with diligence.

The Senate cleared up its table this morning, and adjourned over until Monday evening at half past seven p. m.

A. M. T.

Southern Patriotism.

It is much easier to kindle a fire than it is to put it out, and easier to inflame the public mind with dangerous and delusive doctrines than to help to carry out those doctrines. The Nashville Union gives a good illustration of this in speaking of a couple of prominent individuals in the "Confederacy." It says:

"We have long wondered what had become of L. P. Walker, the first rebel Secretary of War; the man who predicted that within a few days after the bombardment of Sumter, the Confederate flag would be floating over the dome of the capitol at Washington. He was one of the prime movers in the work of firing the Southern heart; and one would have supposed that he, of all others, would figure most conspicuously on the battle field. But such was not the case; and the public has long been asking: Where is he? We can answer the question. He has been employed as counsel by a large number of planters in Alabama, to keep them out of the army!!! Noble specimen of chivalry, this man, and these planters, who would listen to nothing but war. They would let the poor man fight and die, but shrink from taking the field themselves.

Another personage is H. S. Hilliard, once a very conspicuous character in Alabama. He has left the bar, abandoned politics, and gone to preaching, and has now charge of a Methodist congregation, at Augusta, Ga."

EDITORS GAZETTE—Gents:—Three strange communications have lately appeared in your daily over the cognomen of "Lex." Who on earth is "Lex?" Have you examined and do you adopt his heresies? Of course you do not, unless you are willing that the principles you have long labored to establish and maintain shall be completely overthrown. You are not prepared to proclaim the "Errors of Jefferson," of the "Wisconsin Republicans," or the "earlier day errors of Mr. Madison."

Are you prepared to endorse the brainless folly of declaring that the rebellion is sustained by Jefferson, and that he is no longer the acknowledged father of the principles of the Republican Party? Old Jeffersonian Democrats and Fremont Republicans are not prepared thus to stultify themselves.

Some friend ought to induce "Lex" to stop murdering a subject, the mere rudiments of which are entirely beyond his comprehension.

I don't know who "Lex" is; but evidently he has not yet reached even the threshhold of the doctrine of State rights; or he could not so easily establish the fact that both Madison and Jefferson were fools.

DAVID NOGGLE.

SINCE Longstreet's retreat from East Tennessee, Union citizens who had been driven from their homes are returning by the score. Farmers expect to put in their spring crop during the coming month. The people believe that Longstreet has given a final farewell to East Tennessee.

—So long as a woman inspires love, she is not old. But what is it to be old? It does not depend upon the fact that we have existed during a certain mysterious number of years which have been allotted to each of us. To be old is to have no longer a beauty that charms. If a woman preserves the attractions of youth until she reaches the age of one hundred, she will be younger than the woman of twenty who has lost them.

JANESVILLE DAILY GAZETTE.—This paper comes to us again after a resting spell of two months. We failed to recognize it. There was such a look of life, freshness and intelligence about it, that nearly half a day passed before we could realize that it was the GAZETTE. On looking the paper over, we found new type, and several indications of prosperity, gratifying to witness. Verily, there has life come out of Janesville, and there is spice and originality in the DAILY GAZETTE.—La Crosse Democrat.

Twelfth Battery at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 11th, 1864.

Messrs. Editors:—Having an opportunity of writing you, as we are laying over here in Chicago, I thought I would give you some information in regard to the Soldiers' Home at Chicago. We were received with great kindness and respect. The very highly and respectable Mr. D. Johnson is a man throughout to see to the wants of our way-worn soldiers; and the ladies, not at all forgetting them, they are a blessing to our country. The 12th Battery was provided with an extra table which highly pleased the boys. Not that the fare was any better but it showed respect from the matrons of the Home. The officers are ladies with the exception of President and Treasurer, who are gentlemen selected by the board of directors. They carefully guard against receiving deserters, or in any way encouraging men running away from their regiment. The name of each man is recorded as soon as he enters the Home, with his company, regiment, residence, date of entrance, departure and place of destination, with such other memoranda respecting him as the Superintendant may deem advisable to note.

The country will reward its patriot soldiery. We by these tokens signify our gratitude to those who have defended us; our sympathy for those that suffer, and our remembrance of such as have fallen for our country, forever and ever.

Your obedient, WM. R. B.,
M. A. S., 12th Wis. Battery.

—Mrs. and all the Misses John Mitchell returned home to Richmond recently. Shey had to leave all their pretty clothes on the steamer which was burnt to avoid our cruisers, and take to the shore in a long-boat.

—It appears from the official reports of 1863 that of 1,404 fires which occurred in London last year, 227 were in some way or other connected with candles, 80 with children, 123 with flues, 100 with gas, 26 with lucifers, 31 with tobacco smoking, 107 with sparks and 27 with stoves, while the cause of 489 remained an unsolved mystery.

GOING TO THE TOURNAMENT.—As will be observed by the Common Council proceedings of last evening, permission has been granted to Water Witch Engine Co. No. 2 to take their apparatus to Fond du Lac next summer, to compete for the prizes offered by the State Firemens' Association at the Tournament to be held in that city. VEGETABLES FOR THE ARMY.—The ladies Soldier's Aid Society have furnished one barrel at F. S. Eldred's and another at S. H. Culver's store where those families that can furnish pickled vegetables in lesser quantities than barrels can send them there to fill those barrels. The ladies would call attention to the method of preparing the vegetables. The potatoes should be pared and sliced, and put into spiced vinegar that has been previously scalded.

The ladies are gratified to learn that the farmers are moving in this direction and hope our city will not be behind. Let every family do something. Now is the time to do this good work. There is no remedy for neglect. Prompt action will have its reward.

Proceedings of the Common Council.

FRIDAY EVENING, March 11.

The Council met. Present—His Honor the Mayor, and Aldermen Bates, Burnham, Fredendall, Patten, Shelton and Strong. Absent—Alds. McChesney and Partison.

A long report of the Judiciary Committee was submitted recommending the payment of $12.38 to Emeline Page, on account of money paid by her for a tax certificate in case of a double assessment. The report was adopted and the account allowed.

The following order was adopted: "That the action of the Council heretofore taken relieving lots 6 and 7 in block 30, and lots 1 and 8 in block 31, original plat of Janesville, from the payment of assessment for street improvement be and the same is hereby rescinded."

John W. Allen, for cross walks, 3d ward	$50 00
" " building side walk, 3d ward	35 00

The Committee to whom was referred a petition for the improvement of part of Wall street reported in favor of the petition.

The Committee to whom was referred the petition of the Fire Department asking a salary for the Chief Engineer reported adversely to the prayer of the petitioners.

The Committee to whom was referred the petition of Engine Co. No. 2 for a new bell, reported in favor of allowing said company to correspond with manufacturers to ascertain and report to the Council what a suitable bell could be purchased for, but not to make any contract without further order.

The same Committee reported in favor of granting permission to Water Witch Engine Co. No. 2 to take their engine to Fond du Lac on the 24th and 25th of Aug., to attend the Firemen's Tournament.

An order was made instructing the City Clerk to give the proper notices for the charter election to be held on the 5th of April next.

W. B. Strong, Aldeman of the 1st ward, tendered his resignation as Alderman, to take effect on the 19th inst., which was accepted.

The Council adjourned to one week from this evening.

FAT OXEN.—We were shown to-day four head of fine fat oxen, raised on the farm of Mr. J. P. Dixon, of this city. They were purchased by Dano & Lee, and when slaughtered will make very choice beef. Their weight was as follows: 1,870, 1,775, 1,825. Not very heavy, but fat enough to make an epicure's mouth water.

RESIGNATION OF ALD. STRONG.—As will be seen by the Council proceedings, Ald. Strong has resigned his office, to take effect on the 19th. He has been an efficient member of the Council, performing his duties with promptness and intelligence. We believe his name has been as seldom found among the absentees as any member of the Council. He resigns because of the press of other duties connected with his office as General Agent of the M. & P. du C. R. R. Company.

A FRIENDLY VISIT.—Yesterday afternoon our city was enlivened by a delegation of Madison teachers, who had come over to make Janesville a visit, and pay their respects to those engaged in similar avocations with themselves. They were sixteen in number, and were accompanied by Mr. F. B. Williams, Principal of the Madison High School, and A. J. Craig, Esq. Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction. They intended to take the early Madison train and arrive here about 9 o'clock A. M., but owing to some neglect on the part of some one, they did not arrive at until 2 o'clock P. M. They, however, felt disposed to make the most of their short time, and spent several pleasant hours in looking through the schools, and in cultivating the acquaintance of our teachers.

Last evening the city teachers gave their Madison visitors a liberal and generous entertainment at the residence of J. P. Dickson, Esq., who kindly threw open his doors for the occasion. There was not only a feast of reason and a flow of good spirits, but there was also a bountiful repast of such viands as are sometimes beneficial to the carnal nature of the human race. The teachers returned to their homes among the lakes this evening, with a higher opinion of the hospitality of Janesville than they entertained before, and a more just appreciation of the civilities and amenities of social life.

They spent a portion of the time to-day in the teacher's meeting, and in paying a hurried visit to the Blind Institute. Hope they will come again and stay longer.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

ANOTHER PIRATE AFLOAT.

NEW YORK, March 11th.—It is reported, on the authority of the captain of the gunboat Desoto, that a rebel privateer, bark-rigged steamer, is cruising to the westward of Havana.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ELECTION.

CONCORD, N. H., March 11th.—Returns from 220 cities and towns, leaving ten to hear from, stand thus: Gilmore, 36,756; Harrington, 30,759. Gilmore's majority will be about 5,600. Four of the five counsellors, and nine of the twelve senators elect are Union Republicans. The Union Republican majority in the House is about seventy-five.

FROM ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, March 11.—Secessionists report that Gen. Frost has quitted the rebel service, and left the country by way of Matamoras and Havana. They believe he will soon follow his wife, who came here not long ago from New York, took the oath, and gave bonds.

News from Virginia City, Idaho Territory, represents that twenty-two persons in all have been hung or shot by the Vigilance Committee.

W. H. Moulder, a prominent citizen of Mississippi county, Mo., was assassinated by guerrillas on the 3d of March.

Gen. Rosecrans has rescinded all orders heretofore issued in this department prohibiting the sale of newspapers and other publications.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

NEW YORK, March 11.—A private letter from Fortress Monroe, 6th, says: "Last evening, as Gen. Kilpatrick was leaving here to return to his command at Yorktown, news reached Gen. Butler that the enemy had been troubling our line between Portsmouth and Suffolk. Gen. Butler at once stopped the Yorktown boat, and a consultation took place between him and Kilpatrick. The result is that Gen. K. and his command were removed from Yorktown to Portsmouth last night, and are now, with our forces, at the lines in front of Portsmouth, or on the advance in pursuit of the enemy.

"I was up in the front yesterday afternoon, and ascertained that the enemy's force consisted of only 2,000 infantry and some two regiments of cavalry, with four pieces of artillery. This may have been their advance force only.

"Artillery firing was distinctly heard during last night, which was by our forces shelling the woods, not knowing but that the enemy was advancing in force. Our force is quite sufficient to defend the front, and place troops in position to cut off their retreat."

FROM NEW MEXICO.

FORT SMITH, Ark. March 10.—A citizen of Santa Fe arrived here to-day via Choctaw Nation. He says that the people of New Mexico are in great fear of a rebel raid into their country, in consequence of the Federal occupation of the entire Southwest, and the necessity of the rebels finding an outlet in that Territory, Gen. Herron having blockaded all the routes to Mexico on the Rio Grande.

A convention of the Chocktaws is called to meet on the middle of next April. It will embrace all the leading men of the tribe. The rebel Gen. Maxey failed to induce the Chocktaws to continue their relation with the Confederate government. The convention will propose the old terms of allegiance to the United States. Chief Jack McCurtain circulated over 4,000 copies of the President's amnesty proclamation, which was received with great favor. The Seminoles and Chickasaws are still obdurate, owing mainly to the influence of Gen. Cooper, their old Indian agent.

Gen. Blunt arrived yesterday. Gen. Kimmet, Superintendent of the enrollment of volunteers also arrived.

Gen. Magruder, it is said accompanied Price in his return to Camden and spent two weeks at his headquarters.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, March 11th.—Lieutenant General Grant left for Nashville on the evening train, accompanied by General Rawlings and Col. Comstock. He did not intend to leave here until Sunday next, but matters were sooner settled than anticipated. General Halleck's status is no longer a matter of doubt. He reported yesterday to General Grant for orders, and was assigned to special duty here.

Generals Meade and Ingalls came here with General Grant from the Army of the Potomac. The former have not yet returned.

Francis Waldron, author of the statement that General McClellan had an interview with General Lee after the battle of Antietam, is to be made to testify. If he gives his evidence as published, others cognizant of the probability of such a meeting will be summoned before the war committee.

The Ways and Means Committee have completed their amendments to the National Banking Law, and will report on Monday next. The rate of interest is fixed at 7 per cent, and is to be uniform. It allows old banks who wish to accept its provisions to retain their names. The numbers of banks are repealed. There are other amendments, but they are unimportant. These amendments will meet with strenuous opposition, as numerous petitions from old State banks, mostly from New England are pouring into Congress against the whole bill.

After the adjournment of the House to-day, there was an informal meeting of the republicans, when the question was discussed as to what action should be taken on the gold bill, which passed the Senate to-day. It was finally decided that, in order to stop speculation, the Secretary's views on this question should be sustained by republicans. The overwhelming vote of the Senate will therefore insure its passage.

It is reported to-night on good authority that Gen. Grant requested that Baldy Smith should be appointed to the Major General's position made vacant by his (Grant's) promotion, and that the President has accordingly sent his name to the Senate. It is also stated on high military authority that Gen. Smith is to be the new commander of the Army of the Potomac, at the particular request of Gen. Grant.

Secretary Chase to-day instructed Gen. Spinner to state that, from and after the 10th inst, all quartermaster checks will be paid, 70 cents in certificates and 30 cents in currency, instead of 50 cents as heretofore.

DESTRUCTION OF MAILS.

TOLEDO, March 11th.—The Blade learns from the local mail agents here that the following mail from points east, between Cleveland and New York, for points at the west, was almost entirely destroyed by fire in the accident on the Cleveland and Toledo Railroad on Wednesday evening. The Blade says:

In addition to about 100 canvas bags, containing papers, letter bags for the following offices were in the mail: Toledo, 6; Perrysburg, 1; Air Line road, 3; Bryan, 1; Chicago, 5; Galena, 1; Springfield, 2; Quincy, 2; Cairo, 2; Dubuque, 1; St. Joseph, Mo., 3; St. Paul, 1; Denver City, 1; San Francisco, Cal., 1; Sacramento, Cal., 1; Rockford, Ill., 1; Maumee City, 1; Defiance, 1; Logansport and Peoria agent, 1. Total, 35.

FROM CAIRO.

CAIRO, March 11.—Major General Ord, having been relieved of the command of the 13th army corps, Department of the Gulf, by the appointment of General McClernand to that position, is now on his way to Louisville, to report to Lieutenant General Grant. He is to have a command in Grant's department.

General Ord is accompanied by his family and by his brother Major Ord, and Captain A. B. Sharp, who belong to his staff. General Ord is a West Pointer, and has been in the military service for twenty years. He was in the Florida and the Mexican wars. He was appointed Major General about the same time with General Sherman. He is a very plain and unassuming man, both in dress and manner—of rather small stature, and is forty-four years of age.

We expect to hear soon of a new movement from Vicksburg.

RELIGIOUS MISCELLANY.

"Thy Will be Done."

Oh, it is hard at all times thus to pray,
But help me, Saviour, all my care to lay
Down at Thy feet, and trustingly to say,
"Father, Thy will be done."

My earthly troubles I may leave with Thee;
Thou knowest what is ever best for me;
I'm not my own—I must depend on Thee,
And say, "Thy will be done."

If life be crowned with sunshine bright and clear,
Or if my way sometimes be dark and drear,
Lord, let me feel Thy presence near,
And say, "Thy will be done."

And should my days be spent in grief or pain,
Or disappointment lower, and I would fain
Give way to murmurings, help me yet again
To feel, "Thy will be done."

Thou knowest all the future, and the past
Is not forgotten by Thee: Oh, at last
May I on Thee my cares and sorrows cast,
And cry, "Thy will be done."

So may I pass through life; and, when 'tis o'er,
May I land safely on the heavenly shore,
And peaceful rest where I shall need no more
To say, "Thy will be done."

VENERATION.—The apostles give us, in many forms, inventories of religious feelings; and they could not have failed, when they were giving their disciples an enumeration of the elements of piety, to have given them something or other of veneration, if that had held the chiefest place. Had reverence been regarded by them as first in importance, it would have fallen out somewhere. Let us turn to a few of these inventories. We read, in the fifth of Galatians, and the twenty-second verse: "The fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law." Where is your veneration in that passage? The apostle forgot to put it there. He did not even mention it. So far from standing at the top of the catalogue, it is not reckoned in it. And yet, how many, many, many churches are there, that to-day leave the impression upon their every worshipper, that the very first element, and the very first development of the religious feeling, is that of profound awe and reverence. In the tenth verse of the fifth chapter of Ephesians, the apostle again recurs, but more briefly, to the fruits of the Spirit, where he says, "The fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness, and righteousness, and truth; proving what is acceptable unto the Lord." Those things which are acceptable unto the Lord are goodness, and righteousness, and truth. Not a word is said here of veneration or reverence. Look at the utterance contained in the first chapter of Colossians, and the tenth and eleventh verses: "That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work and increasing in the knowledge of God; strengthened with all might, according to his glorious power, unto all patience and long suffering with joyfulness." Reverence or veneration is not mentioned or alluded to here. There are concise definitions that by the apostle were intended to cover the whole ground of piety. There is one contained in the first chapter of 1st Timothy, and the fifth verse: "Now the end of the commandment"—its aim and drift, that for which it was ordained, and that which it seeks—is what? To reverence God? "The end of the commandment is love out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned." Love, conscience, and faith are the inventory and summation. The most memorable instance however, is that contained in the thirteenth chapter of 1st Corinthians, where, in that matchless discourse, the apostle calls up every conceivable act, almost, that men are wont to esteem sacred, and weighs it: not to undervalue it, but to put it in its rightful place; and where he seeks to exalt to its proper position what is the first and chiefest and characteristic development of piety. And what is that? He says: "And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love." There can be no question whatever as to the place which these graces occupied in the apostle's mind. It is evident that in his view veneration was not the core of religion, nor the chief end and aim of it; but that love was; and veneration, although auxiliary, and although implied and pre-supposed, was not regarded by him as of sufficient value to be included in his inventories, and marked out and set forth. And yet, for a thousand years it has been the object of the churches; for a thousand years it has been the office of vestments, and rituals, and forms, and ceremonies, to inspire, as the first feelings, and as the fountains of all other right feelings awe before God, as if veneration was that from which sprung the truest Christian piety. And it is unscriptural as well as unphilosophical. It has no warrant in the Bible. —H. W. Beecher.

THE NEW YORK TIMES!

is now recognized throughout the country as conspicious among the journals of the city of New York for the cheapness of its issues, the enterprise of its management, and the promptness and authenticity of its news.

It pays unfaltering allegiance to the Union and the Constitution; lending a steady, but discriminating, support to the Present Administration of the Government, and advocating every timely effort to promote the progress and elevation of every portion of the human race. In this advocacy, it yields only to safe and conservative impulses, placing always the public good in advance of merely humanitarian and sectarian considerations. No question of import to the welfare of the nation or society fails to obtain candid, independent and exhaustive discussion in the columns of this journal.

In the department of news, the first aim of the Times will continue to be the collection and publication of trustworthy intelligence from all parts of the world.

THE NEW YORK WEEKLY TIMES

BADGER!

1862! 1863! 1864!

GOOD! BETTER! BEST!

THE

BADGER DRILL!

HERETOFORE KNOWN AS

THE JESSUP DRILL!!

AS MADE BY

is now vastly improved, and will hereafter be called the BADGER. The Badger possesses all the good qualities of the old drill, and many valuable improvements.

The feeding principle of the new Drill is the same as the old, but the working arrangement is quite different, and very much improved.

The workmanship is also much better than the old Drill. We will not claim that the Badger is better made than other Drills, but will say that it is made by experienced workmen, under my own supervision, and am willing that it should be compared with the best Drill made.

The frames are made of summer seasoned white ash, from the forests of Indiana. The poles and rolls are dried ash from Jefferson county. The hubs, and other castings, are from the reliable Rock River Iron Works of James Harris & Co. The various sizes of wrought iron are from numerous rolling mills of Pittsbuargh.

THE POINTS ARE CAST STEEL,

from the celebrated Sheffield works of Singer, Nimick & Co. The felloes are from the Ohio State Prison, located at Columbus, Ohio. The spokes are of dry white oak, from Northern Wisconsin. The chains are from Wm. Fredericks, Germany. No pains have been spared to obtain the best material—the workmanship will show for itself.

To those who know the old Drill it is only necessary to say that the Badger is like it—only better. To those who are not acquainted with the old Drill, we would say that the Badger Drill is more accurate in its feeding than any other drill introduced.

That it is lighter draft and easier for the team than any Drill yet introduced into this market.

That it will distribute any kind of grain grown in this region. That it will

Plant Corn in Rows or in Hills!

Any distance apart, from three to six feet.

That the Badger is warranted to perform, in a good and workmanlike manner, all that is required of any Drill. If, on trial, it does not perform, it can be returned to the manufacturer, and all damage will be paid to the purchaser.

In consequence of the large advance in cost of all kinds of material, the Badger must be sold at advanced prices over last year.

Prices of the Badger for 1864:

9 Tooth Drill..........$75 11 Tooth Drill..........$85
10 Tooth Drill.......... 80 12 Tooth Drill.......... 90

Five dollars added for Grass Seeder. Four horse Drills will be made to order on short notice.

Price of 17th tooth Drill and Seeder, $120.

JAS. McMICHAEL, Ch'n.

Mr. Chase and the Presidency.

It cannot be regarded in any other light than as a misfortune that the people of these States will be compelled to turn aside, during the present year, and engage in the discussion and excitement that are incident to a Presidential canvass. Most fortunate would it be for the country, if the official term of the present incumbent could be lengthened out until the present fearful rebellion could be crushed, the Union restored, and until we could welcome back the meek-eyed angel of peace to our shores again, as of yore. But time waits for neither men nor events, and the solemn duty of selecting Mr. Lincoln's successor already stares us in the face. We must go about it whether we will or not.

We published yesterday afternoon the text of Mr. Chase's letter declining to be considered any longer an aspirant for Presidential honors, and in which he quietly and modestly took himself out of the list of candidates for that high position. In taking this step thus early, Mr. Chase has given but another proof of his great patriotism and his unselfish devotion to what he considers the best interests of the country in her trying and perilous hour. A man of great dignity of character, of splendid executive and financial abilities, of enlarged and liberal statesmanship, and who has long been known and recognized as an able champion and unfaltering advocate of those rights and principles upon which the freedom of the human race must stand, his friends had a right to expect and claim for him the respect and consideration which is due to one of the best and ablest statesmen of his time. The safe and steady manner in which he has conducted the government finances through the most critical period of the nation's existence, has not only won the admiration of his own countrymen, but has received, as it has merited, the applause and commendation of the ablest financiers of the old world. Mr. Chase had never exhibited any of those distinguishing characteristics which pointed him out as a man pre-eminently qualified to be placed at the head of the treasury department, before he was selected for that position by Mr. Lincoln. As a member of the United States Senate, he was never conspicuous in the debates relating to the monetary affairs of the nation, and as Governor of Ohio, he was regarded only as a safe and economical officer who did his duty faithfully and conscientiously, and it was not until he was placed in his present trying position, at a time when financial ruin and embarrassment stared the nation in the face, as if chaos was about to come again, that the latent energies of his great soul manifested themselves in bold and decisive action which has given the people confidence and courage. As much as the nation is indebted for its safety to Abraham Lincoln, it owes as much, to-day, to Salmon P. Chase; and although the latter gentleman was not the first choice of many for the presidency, yet had he been selected as the standard bearer by the National Union Convention which meets in Baltimore next June, the loyal people of the free States would have rallied around him as one man.

As matters now stand, Mr. Lincoln certainly seems to be quite sure to have things all his own way in the next Nation Convention, although great changes now take place in men's prospects in a single day. With the declination of Mr. Chase and the preferences expressed for the President by the legislatures and State conventions of so many states, he bids fair to outstrip all competition, and receive the nomination without serious opposition, unless he be guilty of some unpardonable blunder, and a man who moves as slowly as Mr. Lincoln does, is not apt to make mistakes. This voluntary action on the part of Mr. Chase, if adhered to, must increase rather than diminish, Mr. Lincoln's chances, whatever influence it may have upon the prospects of the other aspirants.

It is now a mere matter of speculation as to who will be selected as the democratic nominee for the next campaign. Those who want to put down the rebellion by drilling a great army, holding dress parades, digging rifle pits, throwing up fortifications and retreating in the face of Quaker guns, are in favor of General McClellan. Those who are in favor of a peace with the rebels, upon any terms and at any cost, are naturally clamorous for the nomination of Ohio's great martyr, Vallandigham. As for poor Seymour since the Irish democratic riots in New York among "his friends," he is a dead cock in the pit, and that is the end of him. Great evils sometimes have their compensations, as well as great blessings. Those riots disgraced the nation, but they shelved a wily, dangerous traitor.

General Grant is understood to have been interrogated as to his willingness to accept of a democratic nomination, by some of those who are so anxious to win to care anything about principle. The story goes that he objects to the use of his name, for two reasons; first, he does not want to be a candidate at all, and in the next place, he objects to any political platform that the copperheads are willing to place him on.

McClellan, it seems to us, stands the best chance to be selected as the standard bearer of that aggregation of bad elements and worse principles that will cluster around the banner of the opposition in the next presidential campaign. Without the ability of either Seymour, Vallandigham, or Wood, he possesses certain negative qualities which do not repel, if they do not attract, and his strength lies in his passiveness. Those who voted for Seymour in New York, for Woodward in Pennsylvania, for Vallandigham in Ohio and for H. L. Palmer in our own State, stand ready now to make an idol of "little Mac." Should he be nominated, the hosts of freedom-loving voters in the loyal States would have as little to fear from him, as did the rebel army before Richmond.

Sherman's Great Expedition.

[Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.]

CANTON, Miss., Feb. 26, via CAIRO, March 10.—The grand expedition into Mississipi has returned thus far, and once more we have communication with the outer world.

The expedition has been successful in the objects for which it was sent, viz: to destroy rebel communications by cutting their railroads in all directions, and draw off some of the rebel force from Mobile and Chattanooga.

The expedition penetrated one hundred and fifty miles into the heart of the rebel country, with no communications kept open in its rear, and without meeting any opposition except skirmishing with the enemy's cavalry. It is confidently reported that Gen. Polk had 14,000 men at Meridian, but with this force he dare not make a stand.

We have destroyed nearly seventy miles of railroad, so that there is not a tie nor rail left. All the roads extending from Meridian, of which there are four, are destroyed for a long distance.

More than 8,000 contrabands followed our army back.

Hundreds of mules and horses have been driven off, and property captured and destroyed, of many millions of dollars' value to the rebels.

Terror and consternation has been carried to the hearts of the Confederates, and all has been done in an incredibly short space of time, and with but a trifling loss of life.

It has had a tendency to convince the common people of the hopelessness of their cause. The State is virtually abandoned by rebels, and the people can think of coming back into the Union.

This army has been on the march almost constantly, and has lived on half rations and what they could get from the country, but they have invariably stood it remarkably well, and only wished that they could have had a brush with the rebels.

Though no great battle has been fought and victory won, yet the expedition may be accounted quite successful. Our loss in killed, wounded and prisoners will not exceed 100. That of the enemy is much greater.

We killed a rebel Major and captured one, besides other officers. The country is thinly peopled, and most of the residents poor. They were not originally secesh, but most of them became so. Many would be glad to return to the Union.

Some cotton was seen, most of which was burnt.

The steamer Constitution, seven days from Vicksburg, has just arrived, bringing the 4th Iowa cavalry and seven hundred other re-enlisted parts of regiments.

From officers who were with Sherman's expedition, I learn the following:

The expedition left Vicksburg on the 30th of February. The next day crossed the Big Black river, as before stated, with Wirt Adams' cavalry drawn up in line of battle. Col. Potts' brigade advanced and were strongly resisted by the enemy, who began to retreat after a fight of an hour and a half.

Our troops pushed on in line of battle, following them five miles, and by night had driven them beyond Jackson.

They drove a squad of rebel cavalry out of Jackson, and occupied it. The State House is in good condition, and not burned as has been reported.

In the night some soldiers burned down a number of houses.

The next morning the pontoon bridge was thrown across Pearl River, and the army marched to Brandon, where they skirmished with cavalry, and drove them out.

On reaching Morton they encountered a division of Loring's and French's. They had been throwing up defenses and evidently intended to fight, but as our forces came up slowly, they retreated without firing a gun.

On the 14th Gen. Hurlburt's corps entered Meridian, the remainder of the expedition following the ensuing day, having destroyed the town of Hillsboro', in Scott county, on the way. In Meridian we encountered some rebel cavalry and drove them out, after some skirmishing, and then took possession of the town and held it four days. At that time expeditions were sent out which destroyed fully 100 miles of road on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad and on the Railroad leading to Selma. This includes over 30,000 feet of bridging and a large amount of rolling stock was also destroyed. We found that the rebels themselves had destroyed much rolling stock to prevent it from falling into our hands. While this was being done the town of Enterprise and village and railroad station of Chunkey were destroyed, together with a large amount of rebel stores which were burned up at Chunkey.

There had been no intention of going to Selma, and the main body of the army never went beyond Meridian.

The expedition took with them only 20 days rations, and all was accomplished that had been intended.

Our entire loss in killed, wounded and missing, is put down by correspondents who accompanied the expedition as only about one hundred.

Only two regular correspondents were on the expedition, Mr. Kern, of the New York Herald, and Mr. Simonds, of the Chicago Tribune. Our forces captured and brought away 124 prisoners, received 200 deserters and killed and wounded about 200 of the enemy.

Nearly 6,000 negroes of all ages and sexes followed the army on its return to Vicksburg, escorted by Col. Potts' brigade.

Smith's cavalry was to have joined them at Meridian. If it had done so it would have been used to do important service on the Tombigbee River, in addition to the serious damages inflicted by other troops.

The expedition was at no time in danger from the enemy's resistance, and so formidable that the utmost terror was caused by their advance, and the country was generally helpless before them.

Confidence was felt that with necessary provisions the expedition could have marched successfully to Mobile.

Our army subsisted almost entirely on the enemy's country, and at no time was it short of provisions. It left Canton on the 4th and returned to Vicksburg on the 6th and 7th inst.

The Poetry of Good Cheer.

From the Round Table.

Dugald Stewart, the philosophical essayist, ranks accomplished cooks with great poets, and in reading the memoirs of distinguished men the refined epicurian is pleased to find that as a general rule, the intellectual giants who, "like torches, have consumed themselves for the enlightenment of mankind," were very fond of good living. The bran-bread and non-carnivorous thinkers and writers, from Diogenes to Sylvester Graham, do not occupy a large place in history nor figure brilliantly on its pages. Shakspeare in his early youth hankered after the fat bucks in Sir Thomas Lucy's park, and in later life indulged in jolly dinners with rare Ben Jonson at the Mermaid. Dr. Johnson, the "Behemoth of Literature," scoffs at "people who have a foolish way of not minding or pretending not to mind what they eat," and declares he who does not study his stomach "will hardly mind anything else." The doctor's particular weakness was veal pie, which is not a bad thing when the pastry is made by an expert, and the contents duly seasoned; but we regret to say that he marred his reputation as an aristologist by eating lobster sauce with his plum-pudding. We honor him, however, for having left on record an emphatic protest against the Scotch abomination called a haggis, which, according to Perry, is composed of the entrails of a sheep chopped up with onions, herbs and suet, and boiled in the sheep's maw. What a Scotch bagpipe is to the ear, a Scotch haggis must be to the palate. Milton, notwithstanding puritanism, is said to have fed his peerless muse with the choicest provender, and to have regarded a banquet missed as a paradise lost. His imitator, the bard of the "Seasons," was furiously fond of fruits, and in the autumn was accustomed to nibble at the peaches of his own garden, as they hung temptingly in the sun. He always bit them on the red side, we are told, thus displaying the same taste for the florid in his appetite that is conspicuous in his poetry. That "solid man" in philosophy, Lord Bacon, loved dainties almost as well as bribes, and one of his biographers asserts that he caught the pulmonary complaint of which he died while engaged in stuffing a capon with snow! Even the pious Fenelon had charming ideas on the subject of good cheer, and sometimes wrote like an inspired voluptuary. In his "Voyage dans l'Isle des Plaisers" he gives a description of the way in which the people of the mythical land of Cocagne enjoyed themselves, which makes the palate tingle. Cocagne, according to the philologist, is from coquere, "to cook," but Fenelon's Cocagness have no trouble whatever with their viands, their dinners being gotten up in the most sumptuous style by culinary enchantment. According to Dr. Doran, however (who has given us in his "Table traits with Something on Them" a complete vade-mecum for the curious gastronome) the good archbishop borrowed the idea of his epicurean paradise from the Greek poet Teleclides, who thus (through the medium of a free translation) tells us how the world lived and junketed in its golden youth:

Saturn inquitur. I will tell you what sort of life I vouchsafed to men in the early ages of creation. In the first place, peace reigned universally, and was as common as the water you wash your hands with. Fear and disease were entirely unknown, and the earth provided spontaneously for human want; the rivers then poured cataracts of wine into the valleys, and cake disputed with loaves to get into the mouth of man, as he walked abroad, supplicating to be eaten, and giving assurances of excellent flavor and quality; the tables were covered with fish which floated into the kitchens, and courteously put themselves to roast; by the side of the dinner-couches rolled streams of sauces, bearing with them ready-roasted joints; while rivulets full of ragouts flowed near the guests, who dipped in and took therefrom according to their fancy. Every one could eat what he pleased, and all that he ate was sweet, succulent. There were countless pomegranate seeds for seasoning; little pates, done to a turn, insinuated themselves between the lips of the banqueters, and tarts got smashed in endeavoring to force themselves into the throat. Children played with delicacies as with toys; and the men were gigantic in height and obese in figure.

A rare speech this, but singularly inconsistent from the mouth of Saturn. Surely the poet had forgotten that the old god, as described in the Greek mythology, was of so undiscriminating a palate that he swallowed a paving stone, under the supposition that it was his infant son Jupiter. The thick-headed deity, who did not know a baby from a boulder, could never have given utterance to such a distasteful rhapsody. Besides the legion of Fenelon, there is another and more familiar story, which seems to us to have been borrowed from Teleclides; to-wit, that myth of our childhood's days which treats of a land where the streets are paved with gold and the houses tiled with pancakes, and roast turkeys, with knives and forks for legs, promenade the thoroughfares, crying out "Come eat me!"

It is unnecessary to multiply instances of the epicurean proclivities of authors. From time immemorial they have lived on the fat of the land to the extent of their pecuniary ability, and often beyond it. The few exceptions are not worth naming—they merely establish the rule. Long may the literati continue to be critics in cookery as well as in matters more ethereal, and heaven send them the means of gratifying their praiseworthy dietetic taste! If we could choose their domicile for them, they should live in the

That elysium of all that is friand and nice,
Where for hail they have bonbons, and claret for rain,
And the skaters in winter show off on cream ice.

Where so ready all nature yields,
Macaroni au parmesan grows in the fields;
Little birds fly about with the true pheasant taint,
And the geese are all born with the liver complaint."

To descend from the poetic to the practical; we intimated in a former article that America had much to learn in the esthetics of gastronomy. Touching numberless delicious relishes seen on the tables—especially the breakfast and luncheon tables—of "the English epicures," Yankee Doodle and eke his wife are lamentably ignorant. Potted meats, potted shellfish, and potted game are not on our bill-of-fare. Every well to-do English family that pretends to live well has scores of these bonnes bouches to set before its guests. The lady of the house prepares them or superintends their preparation, and whosoever has not tasted the transatlantic potted lobster, potted shrimps, potted crab, potted veal, potted beef, and potted game, has missed the same number of exquisite sensations. They are not costly luxuries—far from it—nor is it difficult to manufacture them. The meats are thoroughly boiled, then chopped, and then, with the addition of a little butter, reduced to a paste in a mortar. During the latter process they are judiciously seasoned—don't forget the mace. Next they are closely packed down in jars, and covered at the top with a layer about a quarter of an inch in thickness of liquefied butter. Winged game is generally potted whole, enveloped in a strong gravy which becomes gelid when cold; but, sometimes the birds are boned, and then prepared and potted like the ordinary meats. Lobsters and crabs are usually pounded in the same way; but shrimps should always be put down as they come from the hush, and the interstices in the jar, and after the contents have been pretty closely wedged together by pressure should be filled up with melted fresh butter. In all these articles much depends upon the seasoning—in fact, seasoning is the very soul of cookery.

You can buy imported potted meats, shell-fish, etc., at some of the leading grocery and provision stores, but they are no more like the articles bearing the same names that are made in English homes than vin ordinaire is like sparkling Burgundy. They are manufactured for this market after cheap recipes, lack richness and flavor to begin with, and are more or less spoiled by the voyage. Things potted, to be worth eating, must be prepared at home. If American ladies will try their hands at these delicacies, we promise them the thanks of their countrymen.

But have we not made rather a sharp descent from the attic heights of literature to the kitchen depths of culinary detail? We commenced among the poets, philosophers, and metaphysicians, and here we are, with our sleeves rolled up, and disguised in a white cap and apron, standing by the kitchen dresser. Well, what of it! —did not the great Lucullus, who won heaven knows how many victories for Rome over the barbarians, now and then flourish a ladle as the chef of his own cuisine?

THE NEW YORK TIMES!

Daily, (Morning and Evening,) Semi Weekly and Weekly.

The Most Enterprising and Reliable Family Newspaper in the U. S.

THE NEW YORK TIMES!

Is now recognized throughout the country as conspicuous among the journals of the city of New York for the cheapness of its issues, the enterprise of its management, and the promptness and authenticity of its news.

It pays unfaltering allegiance to the Union and the Constitution; lending a steady, but discriminating, support to the Present Administration of the Government, and advocating every timely effort to promote the progress and elevation of every portion of the human race. In this advocacy, it yields only to safe and conservative impulses, placing always the public good in advance of merely humanitarian and sectarian considerations. No question of import to the welfare of the nation or society fails to obtain candid, independent and exhaustive discussion in the columns of this journal.

In the department of news, the first aim of the Times will continue to be the collection and publication of trustworthy intelligence from all parts of the world.

THE NEW YORK WEEKLY TIMES

Is a large and elegantly printed quarto sheet of eight pages or forty-eight columns—devoted to politics, literature and general news, and intended to be the BEST as well as the CHEAPEST family newspaper in the United States.

Especial attention is devoted to full, accurate and trustworthy reports of the live stock and produce markets, for which a special corps of reporters is maintained.

The agricultural department is compiled from a variety of sources, many of them inaccessible to the American reader, and furnishes valuable information to the farmer and gardener.

FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE

Over the Post Office!

There is nothing so much sought for by the public as a practical Sewing Machine, one that is Simple, Strong & Reliable.

One that will run for years without the annoyance of being out of repair; one that is noiseless and swift in motion; also that makes the stitch as you want it, alike on both sides of the fabric; such are the machines of the

COMPANY!

Who take pleasure in placing their machines before the public, and unhesitatingly say they are the best in the world, and openly and publicly challenge machines of any and all manufactures to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on one of these machines. They make

and have all the advantages of a reversible feed motion, which carries the work either way, which, together with making all the four stitches, can be done whilst the machine is in motion; the saving of time in stopping to change the length of stitch, is obviated by this machine.

Any correspondence regarding our machines will be promptly answered. Enclose a letter stamp and we will send circular and sample of work by return mail.

GOTTSCHALK ON KNABE.

[Translated from the French]

After having played on the Piano of Messrs. Knabe & Co., it is impossible not to bear testimony to their qualities, which have acquired for them the eminent reputation which they enjoy. The Pianos of their manufacture, on which I have played, are exceedingly remarkable for their qualities. The bass is powerful without harshness, and the upper notes sweet, clear and harmoniously mellow, (chrystaline,) and I do not hesitate to express in regard to these instruments my entire satisfaction, and to declare that they are equal if not superior to the best manufactured in Europe or this country by the most celebrated makers.

HYATT'S IMPROVED

Knife & Scissors Sharpener!

An unequaled instrument for sharpening all kinds of

House Knives, Shears and Scissors.

This Machine is especially adapted to the wants of Houses, Hotels, Saloons and Shops.

The principle on which the machine is constructed, and the rapidity, ease and excellence of its operation, have never before been combined in an instrument to sharpen edge tools.

The Grinding wheels are made of a solid composition of emery, and hence not only grind rapidly but are very durable, and being used with water, cannot effect the temper of a blade.

The principle on which it operates—that of grinding both sides simultaneously—is an entirely new one and superior to all others, making it not only rapid in its operation, but requiring comparatively no skill in its use, and insuring a perfectly uniform edge, bevilled alike on both sides, and of the best possible angle for cutting.

In sharpening Shears and Scissors each blade is necessarily ground exactly to the same bevel, and a keen, smooth cutting edge is obtained. In this respect, as well as in sharpening knives, the machine is altogether superior to anything ever brought before the public, and is certain to give complete satisfaction to all who use it.

Having the exclusive right to sell these machines in this county, I shall call upon the citizens generally to introduce it to their notice. They can also be seen at N. J. Dearborn's grocery store, corner of Milwaukee and Main streets. WM. BOOTH.

It does not Dry up a Cough,

SATURDAY, MARCH 12, 1864.

RELIGIOUS MISCELLANY.

"Thy Will be Done."

Oh, it is hard at all times thus to pray,
But help me, Saviour, all my care to lay
Down at Thy feet, and trustingly to say,
"Father, Thy will be done."

My earthly troubles I may leave with Thee;
Thou knowest what is ever best for me;
I'm not my own—I must depend on Thee,
And say, "Thy will be done."

If life be crowned with sunshine bright and clear,
Or if my way sometimes be dark and drear,
Lord, let me feel Thy presence near,
And say, "Thy will be done."

And should my days be spent in grief or pain,
Or disappointment lower, and I would fain
Give way to murmurings, help me yet again
To feel, "Thy will be done."

Thou knowest all the future, and the past
Is not forgotten by Thee: Oh, at last
May I on Thee my cares and sorrows cast,
And cry, "Thy will be done."

So may I pass through life; and, when 'tis o'er,
May I land safely on the heavenly shore,
And peaceful rest where I shall need no more
To say, "Thy will be done."

VENERATION.—The apostles give us, in many forms, inventories of religious feelings; and they could not have failed, when they were giving their disciples an enumeration of the elements of piety, to have given them something or other of veneration, if that had held the chiefest place. Had reverence been regarded by them as first in importance, it would have fallen out somewhere. Let us turn to a few of these inventories. We read, in the fifth of Galatians, and the twenty-second verse: "The fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law." Where is your veneration in that passage? The apostle forgot to put it there. He did not even mention it. So far from standing at the top of the catalogue, it is not reckoned in it. And yet, how many, many, many churches are there, that to-day leave the impression upon their every worshipper, that the very first element, and the very first development of the religious feeling, is that of profound awe and reverence. In the tenth verse of the fifth chapter of Ephesians, the apostle again recurs, but more briefly, to the fruits of the Spirit, where he says, "The fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness, and righteousness, and truth; proving what is acceptable unto the Lord." Those things which are acceptable unto the Lord are goodness, and righteousness, and truth. Not a word is said here of veneration or reverence. Look at the utterance contained in the first chapter of Colossians, and the tenth and eleventh verses: "That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work and increasing in the knowledge of God; strengthened with all might, according to his glorious power, unto all patience and long suffering with joyfulness." Reverence or veneration is not mentioned or alluded to here. There are concise definitions that by the apostle were intended to cover the whole ground of piety. There is one contained in the first chapter of 1st Timothy, and the fifth verse: "Now the end of the commandment"—its aim and drift, that for which it was ordained, and that which it seeks—is what? To reverence God? "The end of the commandment is love out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned." Love, conscience, and faith are the inventory and summation. The most memorable instance however, is that contained in the thirteenth chapter of 1st Corinthians, where, in that matchless discourse, the apostle calls up every conceivable act, almost, that men are wont to esteem sacred, and weighs it: not to undervalue it, but to put it in its rightful place; and where he seeks to exalt to its proper position what is the first and chiefest and characteristic development of piety. And what is that? He says: "And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love." There can be no question whatever as to the place which these graces occupied in the apostle's mind. It is evident that in his view veneration was not the core of religion, nor the chief end and aim of it; but that love was; and veneration, although auxiliary, and although implied and pre-supposed, was not regarded by him as of sufficient value to be included in his inventories, and marked out and set forth. And yet, for a thousand years it has been the object of the churches; for a thousand years it has been the office of vestments, and rituals, and forms, and ceremonies, to inspire, as the first feelings, and as the fountains of all other right feelings awe before God, as if veneration was that from which sprung the truest Christian piety. And it is unscriptural as well as unphilosophical. It has no warrant in the Bible. —H. W. Beecher.

THE NEW YORK TIMES!

Daily, (Morning and Evening,) Semi-Weekly and Weekly.

The Most Enterprising and Reliable Family Newspaper in the U. S.

THE NEW YORK TIMES!

is now recognized throughout the country as conspicuous among the journals of the city of New York for the cheapness of its issues, the enterprise of its management, and the promptness and authenticity of its news.

It pays unfaltering allegiance to the Union and the Constitution; lending a steady, but discriminating, support to the Present Administration of the Government, and advocating every timely effort to promote the progress and elevation of every portion of the human race. In this advocacy, it yields only to safe and conservative impulses, placing always the public good in advance of merely humanitarian and sectarian considerations. No question of import to the welfare of the nation or society fails to obtain candid, independent and exhaustive discussion in the columns of this journal.

In the department of news, the first aim of the Times will continue to be the collection and publication of trustworthy intelligence from all parts of the world.

THE NEW YORK WEEKLY TIMES

is a large and elegantly printed quarto sheet of eight pages or forty-eight columns—devoted to politics, literature and general news, and intended to be the BEST as well as the CHEAPEST family newspaper in the United States.

Especial attention is devoted to full, accurate and trustworthy reports of the live stock and produce markets, for which a special corps of reporters is maintained.

The agricultural department is compiled from a variety of sources, many of them inaccessible to the American reader, and furnishes valuable information to the farmer and gardener.

BADGER!

1862! 1863! 1864!

GOOD! BETTER! BEST!

THE

BADGER DRILL!

HERETOFORE KNOWN AS

THE JESSUP DRILL!!

AS MADE BY

R. J. RICHARDSON,

is now vastly improved, and will hereafter be called the BADGER. The Badger possesses all the good qualities of the old drill, and many valuable improvements.

The feeding principle of the new Drill is the same as the old, but the working arrangement is quite different, and very much improved.

The workmanship is also much better than the old Drill. We will not claim that the Badger is better made than other Drills, but will say that it is made by experienced workmen, under my own supervision, and am willing that it should be compared with the best Drill made.

The frames are made of summer seasoned white ash, from the forests of Indiana. The poles and rolls are dried ash from Jefferson county. The hubs, and other castings, are from the reliable Rock River Iron Works of James Harris & Co. The various sizes of wrought iron are from numerous rolling mills of Pittsburgh.

THE POINTS ARE CAST STEEL,

from the celebrated Sheffield works of Singer, Nimick & Co. The felloes are from the Ohio State Prison, located at Columbus, Ohio. The spokes are of dry white oak, from Northern Wisconsin. The chains are from Wm. Fredericks, Germany. No pains have been spared to obtain the best material—the workmanship will show for itself.

To those who know the old Drill it is only necessary to say that the Badger is like it—only better. To those who are not acquainted with the old Drill, we would say that the Badger Drill is more accurate in its feeding than any other drill introduced.

That it is lighter draft and easier for the team than any Drill yet introduced into this market.

That it will distribute any kind of grain grown in this region. That it will

Plant Corn in Rows or in Hills!

Any distance apart, from three to six feet.

That the Badger is warranted to perform, in a good and workmanlike manner, all that is required of any Drill. If, on trial, it does not perform, it can be returned to the manufacturer, and all damage will be paid to the purchaser.

In consequence of the large advance in cost of all kinds of material, the Badger must be sold at advanced prices over last year.

Prices of the Badger for 1864:

9 Tooth Drill..........$75 11 Tooth Drill..........$85
10 Tooth Drill.......... 80 12 Tooth Drill.......... 90

Five dollars added for Grass Seeder. Four horse Drills will be made to order on short notice.

Price of 17th tooth Drill and Seeder, $120.

THE NEW YORK TIMES!

Daily, (Morning and Evening,) Semi Weekly and Weekly.

The Most Enterprising and Reliable Family Newspaper in the U. S.

THE NEW YORK TIMES!

is now recognized throughout the country as conspicious among the journals of the city of New York for the cheapness of its issues, the enterprise of its management, and the promptness and authenticity of its news.

It pays unfaltering allegiance to the Union and the Constitution; lending a steady, but discriminating, support to the Present Administration of the Government, and advocating every timely effort to promote the progress and elevation of every portion of the human race. In this advocacy, it yields only to safe and conservative impulses, placing always the public good in advance of merely humanitarian and sectarian considerations. No question of import to the welfare of the nation or society fails to obtain candid, independent and exhaustive discussion in the columns of this journal.

In the department of news, the first aim of the Times will continue to be the collection and publication of trustworthy intelligence from all parts of the world.

THE NEW YORK WEEKLY TIMES

is a large and elegantly printed quarto sheet of eight pages or forty-eight columns—devoted to politics, literature and general news, and intended to be the BEST as well as the CHEAPEST family newspaper in the United States.

Especial attention is devoted to full, accurate and trustworthy reports of the live stock and produce markets, for which a special corps of reporters is maintained.

The agricultural department is compiled from a variety of sources, many of them inaccessible to the American reader, and furnishes valuable information to the farmer and gardener.

FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE

Over the Post Office!

There is nothing so much sought for by the public as a practical Sewing Machine, one that is Simple, Strong & Reliable.

One that will run for years without the annoyance of being out of repair; one that is noiseless and swift in motion; also that makes the stitch as you want it, alike on both sides of the fabric: such are the machines of the

COMPANY!

Who take pleasure in placing their machines before the public, and unhesitatingly say they are the best in the world, and openly and publicly challenge machines of any and all manufactures to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on one of these machines. They make

and have all the advantages of a reversible feed motion, which carries the work either way, which, together with making all the four stitches, can be done whilst the machine is in motion; the saving of time in stepping to change the length of stitch, is obviated by this machine.

Any correspondence regarding our machines will be promptly answered. Enclose a letter stamp and we will send circular and sample of work by return mail.

[Translated from the French.]

After having played on the Piano of Messrs. Knabe & Co., it is impossible not to bear testimony to their qualities, which have acquired for them the eminent reputation which they enjoy. The Pianos of their manufacture, on which I have played, are exceedingly remarkable for their qualities. The bass is powerful without harshness, and the upper notes sweet, clear and harmoniously mellow, (chrystaline,) and I do not hesitate to express in regard to these instruments my entire satisfaction, and to declare that they are equal if not superior to the best manufactured in Europe or this country by the most celebrated makers.

HYATT'S IMPROVED

Knife & Scissors Sharpener!

An unequaled instrument for sharpening all kinds of

House Knives, Shears and Scissors.

This Machine is especially adapted to the wants of Houses, Hotels, Saloons and Shops.

The principle on which the machine is constructed, and the rapidity, ease and excellence of its operation, have never before been combined in an instrument to sharpen edge tools.

The Grinding wheels are made of a solid composition of emery, and hence not only grind rapidly but are very durable, and being used with water, cannot effect the temper of a blade.

The principle on which it operates—that of grinding both sides simultaneously—is an entirely new one and superior to all others, making it not only rapid in its operation, but requiring comparatively no skill in its use, and insuring a perfectly uniform edge, beveled alike on both sides, and of the best possible angle for cutting.

In sharpening Shears and Scissors each blade is necessarily ground exactly to the same bevel, and a keen, smooth cutting edge is obtained. In this respect, as well as in sharpening knives, the machine is altogether superior to anything ever brought before the public, and is certain to give complete satisfaction to all who use it.

Having the exclusive right to sell these machines in this county, I shall call upon the citizens generally to introduce it to their notice. They can also be seen, at N. J. Dearborn's grocery store, corner of Milwaukee and Main streets. WM. BOOTH.

COUGH BALSAM

Over Five Thousand Bottles have been sold in its native town, and not a single instance of its failure is known. We have, in our possession, any quantity of certificates, some of them from eminent Physicians, who have used it in their practice, and given it the pre-eminence over any other compound.

It does not Dry up a Cough, but loosens it, so as to enable the patient to expectorate freely. Two or three doses will invariably cure Tickling in the Throat. A half bottle has often COMPLETELY CURED the most and yet, though it is so sure and speedy in its operation, it is perfectly harmless, being purely vegetable. It is very agreeable to the taste, and may be administered to children of any age.

IN CASES OF CROUP,

we will guarantee a cure if taken in season. No family should be without it. It is within the reach of all the price being and if an investment and thorough trial does not "back up" the above statement, the money will be refunded. We say this, knowing its merits, and feel confident that one trial will secure for it a home in every household.

DO NOT WASTE AWAY WITH COUGHING,

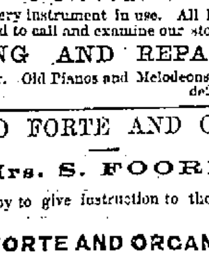

when so small an investment will cure you. It may be had of any respectable druggist in town, who will furnish you with a circular of genuine certificates of cures it has made. C. G. CLARK & CO.,
